The WORLD WIDE RADIO MISSIONARY

HCJB

"The Voice of the Andes"

Operated by the World Missionary Radio-Fellowship, Inc., 1931.
 U. S. Forwarding Office, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Centuries before RADIO was given to man, the inspired scribe wrote, "Their sound went out into all the earth." Perhaps at no time in history has this fact been so fully realized as today when what is spoken in Quito is heard instantly on the other side of the world, and all points in between! At Radio Station, THE PIONEER MISSIONARY BROADCASTER, this modern miracle is being repeated day after day as the Gospel and other programs are sent forth in several different languages. Missionaries in India, ship's officers on the high seas, mine workers in Venezuela, an orphan home in Alaska—all tune in with equal facility because of the volume and clarity with which HCJB's message is heard.

"reaching the regions beyond by radio"

A staff of ten missionaries give their consecrated talents and time to preparing and presenting the many hours of daily broadcast. Since HCJB was founded in 1931 to reach Spanish-America with the soul-saving "Good News," this has first emphasis in the programs sent forth in Spanish. Radio has proved itself capable of carrying the Gospel past barriers of prejudice, and opening doors that have been fast closed to other approaches.

A recent letter from an enthusiastic family in Mexico is typical of many received by HCJB. "I want to tell you, that every hour and every day of the week you transmit we hear your programs . . . We have invited many to hear your programs and here at home, two women, a man, and a little boy come constantly and anxiously, to hear them and they have accepted Christ as their Personal Saviour; even the little boy who is 5 years old follows the music of the hymns . . . that shows that your preaching is giving fruit, and I am sure that many will know Jesus through it."

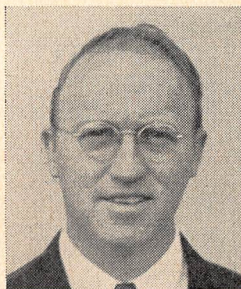

Christians, interested in a vital, far-reaching, effective method of reaching millions for Christ, wherever there are radio receivers, out in the fields that are "white unto harvest," are cordially invited to pray for HCJB, and inquire into its worldwide ministry for Christ and His Great Commission.

Dr. Manuel Garrido Aldama
in charge of Spanish Gospel programs.

Miss Ruth Christensen, Correspondence Secretary of Station HCJB, finds her hands happily filled many times a month with hundreds of letters coming from listening friends, near and far. Requests for prayer, for hymns to be sung, and special programs to be dedicated to churches and other groups; petitions for souvenirs of the Station, information about the work and workers of HCJB, keep her busy in this important part of the ministry of "Heralding Christ Jesus' Blessings." Letters from listeners to HCJB programs are most appreciated and welcomed by the Staff. To us, these communications are completing the "circle of friendship," begun at the microphone, sent out around the world, coming back through the mails.

CLARENCE MOORE,
Chief Engineer of
"The Voice of the Andes"—HCJB

"The Voice of the Andes" (HCJB) employs three separate stations to reach out to all listeners everywhere. Locally, in Quito, capital of Ecuador, with its 150,000 inhabitants, HCJB is heard on longwave. Nationally, throughout the provinces of Ecuador and nearby republics,

CLARENCE W. JONES, Director

our programs are tuned in on 31 meters on our second station. Internationally, HCJB is heard on 12½ megacycles with a 10,000 watt station using a directional beam antennae which can be rotated to point its beam on any part of the globe.

HOME OF THE 10 KW. HCJB TRANSMITTER

When the first thousand or so letters came back to HCJB from listeners around the world with enthusiastic reports of marvelous reception of the new 10 KW. transmitter, we dared not believe our eyes. However, we have come to firmly accept the fact that, truly, HCJB is, in the largest possible sense, "reaching the regions beyond by radio." When it is recognized that this system of transmission is operated by missionaries for the glory of God, its influence for the cause of Christ everywhere can well be imagined.
