The first place to look for anything in world radio and television

Need to know the frequency and times that a special station will be on the air? Or what station you are listening to? Need to know where to send for a QSL card? Want information on broadcast frequencies, personnel, or power? Or addresses or programs? Whatever the question, you'll find the answers fastest in the all new, 1967 World Radio TV Handbook. Concise, factual, up-to-date, World Radio TV Handbook is the authoritative source of complete and exact information on world broadcasting. It is the one indispensable book for anyone interested in international radio or television.

The World Radio TV Handbook contains...

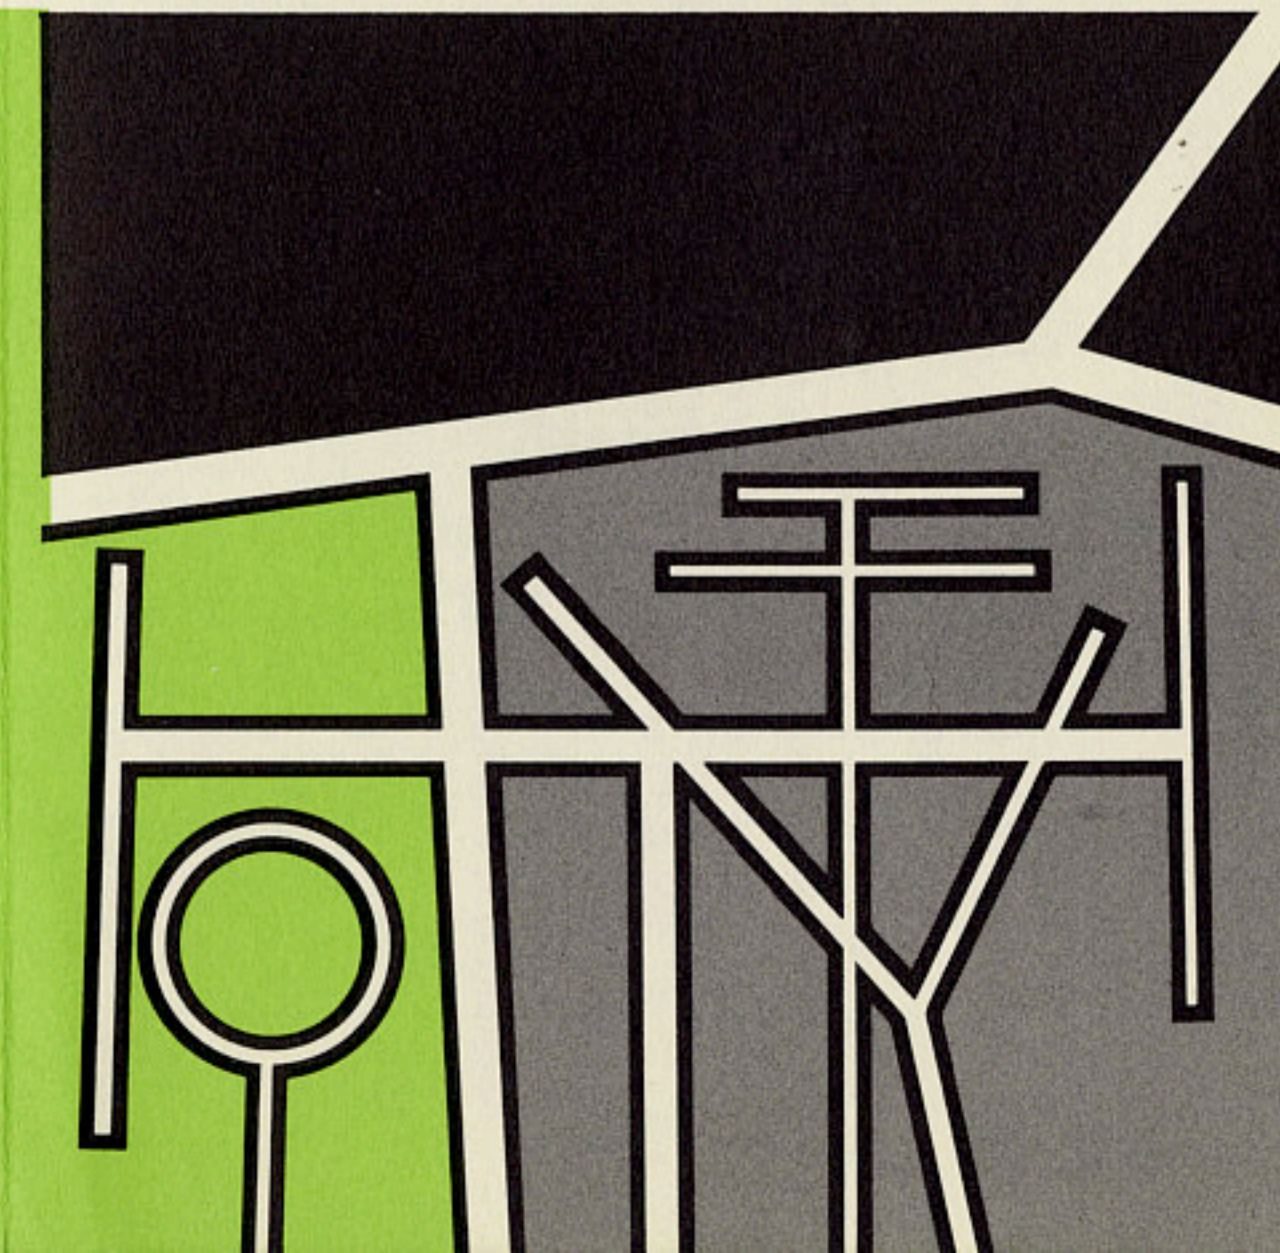

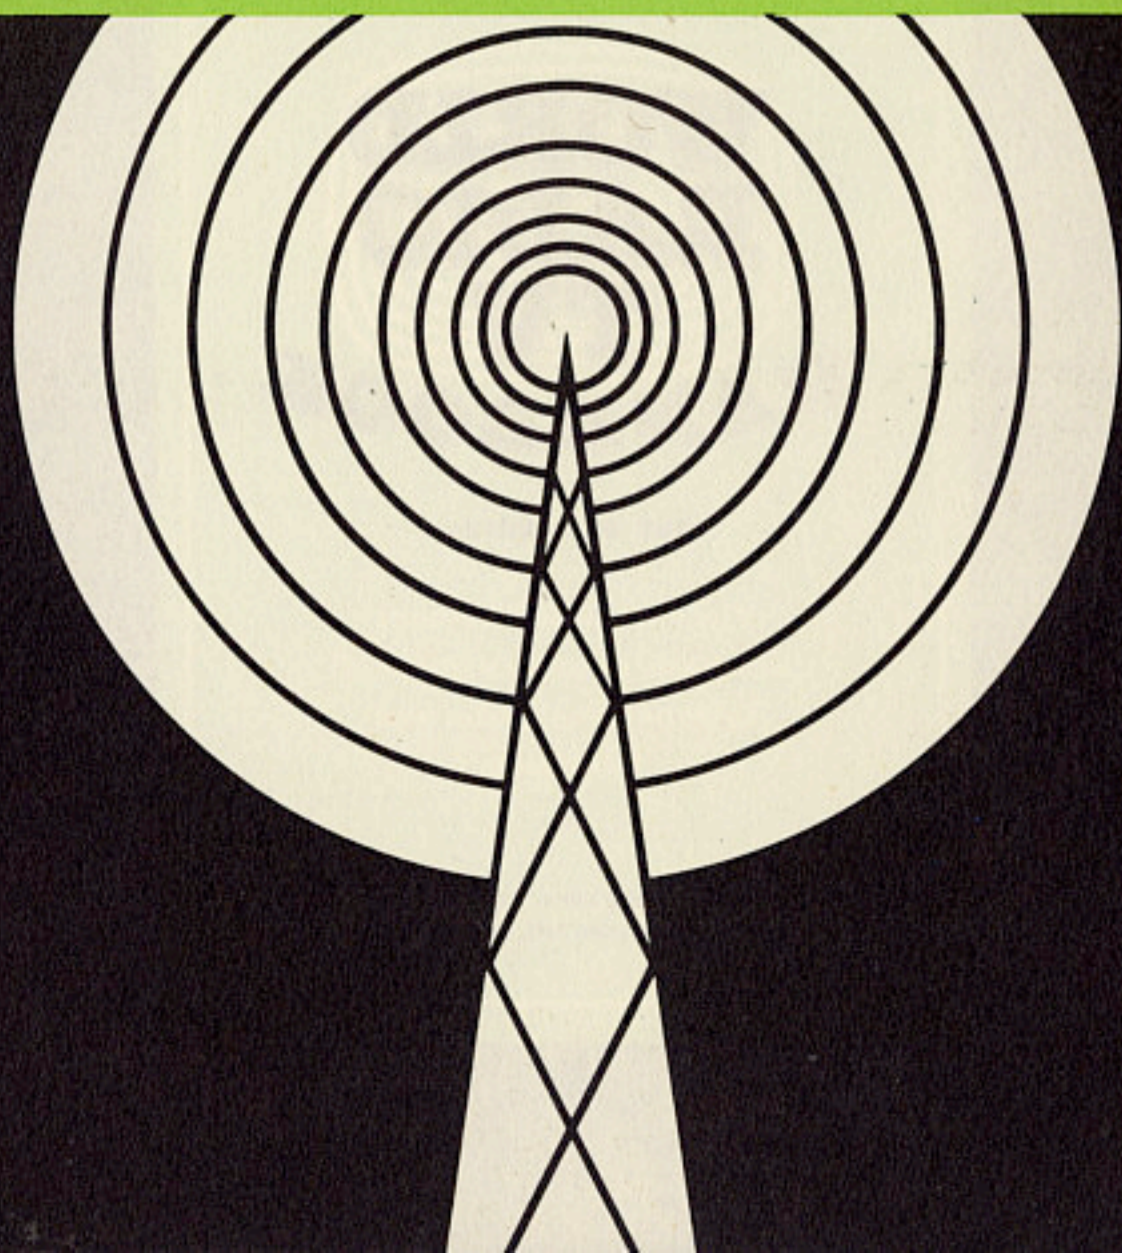

- all international short wave stations, frequencies for each country, foreign broadcasts, long and medium wave stations (AM Broadcast Band), TV stations, domestic programs.
- Over 300 pages detailing the latest information for each station, including: frequencies, time schedules, announcements, personnel, slogans, interval signals and more.
- Over 36 pages of special features including the newest time zone maps, color TV standards, sun spot activity, satellite signals and country-by-country radio and television set count.
- Special by-line articles by leaders in broadcast communications.
- The World Radio TV Handbok is recommended by the United Nations, UNESCO, Eurovision, Intervision and the world's leading broadcast organizations and DX clubs.

Unduplicated editorial content

The above excerpts from the 1966 edition of World Radio TV Handbook are typical of the detailed and up-to-date information on all stations to be found in every issue of World Radio TV Handbook. It's the only publication that lets you identify stations quickly and easily, fill in more pages in your log book and helps you add more QSL cards to your collection. It's the only comprehensive guide to everything you need to know about world broadcasting stations, standards, reception, personnel and programming.

Unsurpassed reader usefulness

World Radio TV Handbook is a must for short wave listeners, hams, DXers, station executives, engineering staffs, marketing and advertising specialists, broadcast organizations, or, in fact, anyone who needs complete and accurate information on international radio or TV. Whether your interest is business or pleasure, World Radio TV Handbook is the one reference book you should not be without. Don't miss owning your own copy of the new 1967 edition. "... a book of reference which not only renders good and permanent service to the technically trained amateur but also to the professionally trained personnel of broadcasting stations."

G. G. Thiele, DX Editor, Deutsche Welle.

"... I have continual need to refer to it on some detail or other... it is in almost daily use."

Donald Stephenson, Head of Overseas and Foreign Relations, BBC.

"... The Handbook has become the only acknowledged reference work dealing with the broadcasting stations of the world..."

Arthur Miller, Chairman, International Short Wave League.

"... an excellent and up-to-date source of information."

Maarten van Delft, President, Benelux DX-Club.

"... No two people can differ on the fact that WRTH is the authoritative reference of International radio and television."

Sari Aweidah, Director-General, The Hashemite Broadcasting Service of Jordan.

"... its consistent striving for accuracy and it's ability to deliver reliable data semi-annually makes it an indispensable tool."

Dr. Ralph Freed, General Director, Trans World Radio, Monaco.

"... by providing so much information vital to our day to day activities, it has proved to be a virtually irreplaceable aid to those of us associated with or interested in the field of broadcasting."

G. H. Stringer, Director General, New Zealand Broadcasting Corp.

"... During these past years, the WRTH has become my permanent and never failing companion."

Karol Reif, Head Foreign Relations Department, Radio Prague Czechoslovakia.

"... the World Radio TV Handbook has been of the utmost help to find the broadcasts I have been searching for."

Ellmann Ellingsen, Member of the Board of DX-Listeners Club, Norway.

"... A DX-er cannot operate without his WRTH."

Owe Nordin, Secretary General, DX-Alliansen, Stockholm, Sweden.

"Over the years the World Radio TV Handbook has made for itself a permanent place on the bookshelves of numerous broadcasting organizations."

D. A. Lightfoot, Director General, Zambia Broadcasting Corporation.
